Visitors To McLean House Are Increasing

With the coming of spring weather, a sharp increase has been noted in the number of visitors at the McLean House and the Appomattox National Monument at the Old Court House.

Several buses brought school children from nearby counties to the McLean House yesterday, and hardly a day passes without the historic area being visited by some special group.

This is Historic Garden Week in Virginia, and although the McLean House is not on the official list of the Garden Clubs of Virginia for visitation on tours, nevertheless a number of groups came here while touring in this section of the state.

The Appomattox Garden Club had flowers all week in each room of the McLean House. A committee for this purpose included: Mrs. C. D. Staples Mrs. C. T. Moses, Jr. Mrs. A. R. Harwood, Jr., Mrs. F. F. Carr and Mrs. William Burke.

Monthly arrangements were in the dining room, the surrender room, a table arrangement in the surrender room, a desk arrangement in the master's bed room and mantle arrangements in both of the upstairs bed rooms. These displays have been replaced with fresh flowers during the week, and the public is invited to visit the famous home where peace was made in 1865. The McLean House is now open Sundays as well as week days. Most tour groups also visit the National Park Service office for free booklets and to see the museum items on display.

Company in the sales department. Welcome back to Appomattox.

I would like to end today's column with a poem composed and written by Miss Peyton Abbitt, 5th grade student at A. H. S., and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Abbitt, Jr. —

SPRINGTIME

Spring is the happiest time of the year.
When birds and flowers start to appear.
And the fragrance of flowers smell so sweet,
Your heart can't help but give a happy beat.
Children's feet quicken on the path
As they hasten to put up the friendly bird bath.
For birds who from the south have flown,
To bathe their feathers so wind blown.
Oh! Isn't spring a wonderful time,
With singing and dancing and stories in rhyme?

Chicago Feeder Sale Nets Over $1 Million

257 Carloads Feeder Calves Are Exhibited

A record 257 carloads of feeder calves sold for well over a million dollars at the 5th annual Chicago Feeder Calves Show and Sale, held at the Chicago Stock Yards.

Largest feeder cattle event in the nation, the exciting show and sale entry list exceeded last year's record by over a hundred carloads. It also pointed up the expanding beef industry and the interest in improved stock.

The grand champion carload of feeder calves in the show were exhibited by veteran cattleman Fred

Mr. and Mrs. Fred DeBerard pose with their champion feeder calves that were judged grand champion carload at the Chicago Feeder Catt'e Show and Sale.

C. DeBerard of Kremmling, Colo. Warsaw, Indiana, cattle feeder, bought DeBerard's blocky prizewinning Herefords for $85 per cwt. The grand champion calves averaged 428 pounds.

The auction brought an average of $42.11 per cwt. for 257 loads of cattle, $6.69 per cwt. higher than last year's average. The average weight was 485 pounds. Sales totaled $1,550,633.

Steer calves numbering 132 loads, average $42.45 per cwt. while 50 carloads of heifer calves averaged $44.15 per cwt.

Americans May Eat More Meat in Next 12 Months

The average American may eat even more meat and poultry in 1952 than in 1951, if advance production figures are any indication.

According to a forecast of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, meat production this year may be large enough to provide an average of 144 pounds per person as compared with 141 pounds in 1951.

Most of the meat increase will be in beef and veal. Much of the step-up in beef will be in medium and lower grades, although some of it probably will be in the better grades of grain-fed cattle.

The amount of lamb and mutton eaten by the average American is expected to go up slightly. Last year consumption of lamb and mutton was the lowest on record—only slightly over 3 pounds per person.

A little more pork may be on the market in the first seven or eight months of 1952 than in 1951, but production for the last part of the year may be somewhat smaller.

Americans will also probably eat more chicken and turkey. Production of turkeys for 1952 may exceed the record-high 1951 level, but output of chicken is expected to be about the same.

Champion Barrow

Experts Forecast Greater Cattle Slaughter in 1952

In the outlook for meat animals 1952 may be a pivotal year when new or modified trends in meat production take place, experts report. The present low slaughter rate and large farm inventories are setting the stage for a substantial increase in slaughter in future years. The big question is how soon and what its price effect will be? In all probability cattle slaughter will increase in 1952 for the first time in five years.

On Bedtime Snacks

Many people wonder whether that snack before going to bed is a wise thing to do or not. According to some people a little snack makes them sleep more easily and restfully while in others it produces wakefulness and digestive disturbances. The answer, then, is obvious—if one is hungry at bedtime, he should eat. That bedtime "hunger" may not be hunger at all, however. It might be just the body's attempt to entice the sleeper into putting something in his stomach to help divert blood from his brain and thus promote sleep. The most effective means of promoting sleep, though, is the use of comfortable sleeping equipment.

Roving Bottle

United States Army forces on Okinawa have announced that a sealed bottle dropped from a ship 16 months ago south of the Hawaiian Islands was recently retrieved by a villager at Zenoko, on the east-central coast of Okinawa. The bottle contained a note written in 6 languages explaining that the bottle had been dropped by the Hydrographic Office of the U. S. Weather Bureau to test ocean currents. The note said the bottle was dropped from a ship south of Hawaii November 29, 1949. The finder mailed the note to Washington, D. C. in conformity with a request it contained. The bottle had traveled at least 4,000 miles
